Contest for Adjutant-Generalship Between Cols. Kelton and Whipple, Etc. The contest over the vacancy that will be created in the army next week by the retirement of Adjutant-General Drum on account of age is waxing hot and forms the main topic of army officers' gossip at present. It is generally conceded that the chances for the adjutantgeneralship lie between Cols. Kelton and Whipple. The former is now on duty here as first assistant adjutant-general and the latter is at Governor's island. Although Col. Kelton is the younger man, he outranks Col. Whipple and is at present at the head of the list of assistant adjutants-general, and the usual course of army promotion would bring him to the fore, especially in view of the fact of his extended

But there is a precedent in a somewhat similar case, which led to the selection of Gen. Baird as the head of the inspector's corps over Gen. Jones, who outranked him, although he was vounger. On the other hand there is the case of Gen. Casey and Gen. Parke, in the contest for the position of chief of engineers. Casey was the younger man, but outranked Parke, owing to the change he made from the topographical engineers to the engineer corps lasey received the appointment. The hope of the army-or at least that part of it located in Washington-generally inclines toward Col. Kelton, who is a great favorite.

CAPTAINS WHO WOULD LIKE TO BE MAJORS. The retirement of Gen. Drum will cause the promotion of Lt.-Col. Ruggles to be colonel and Major H. C. Corbin to be lieutenant-colonel, leaving a vacancy in the list of assistants adjutant-general with the rank of major, for which there is a bitter strife among a large number of captains. Following are a few of the names of those who have applied for th fourth artillery at Boston has been ordered to exchange places with the second artillery at Atlanta. THE NEW COMMISSIONERS. They Call Upon the Retiring Officials To-day.

The statement that the new Commissioners would take charge of the District to-day caused a flurry of excitement at the District buildings this morning. Business during the morning hours was at a standstill and the clerks wandered aimlessly through the building, now and then stopping before the Commissioners' room and peering cautiously in. The retiring Commissioners made their appearance at the usual hour and went to work as if nothing was going to happen. Auditor Petty received information that the new Commissioners would shortly be down, and everything was put in readiness to receive them.

HOW THEY WERE RECEIVED. It was nearly noon when Messrs. Douglass and Hine drove up in the latter's carriage, and before any one in the building had a chance to recognize them they were in the Commissioners' room. Mr. Hine went immediately up to Mr. Wheatley, while Mr. Douglass walked into Mr. Webb's room. Mr. Wheatley was signing checks at the time, but dropped his pen when he saw Mr. Hine. After the two and shaken hands they adjourned to Mr. Webb's room. Mr. Webb came forward, and addressing the two new Commissioners said: "Gentlemen, we have everything ready for you." Quite a crowd of clerks had gathered in the room by this time and Mr. Webb suggested that they adjourn to the board room which they did. Major Raymond was sent for and introduced, and the quintette had a pleasant chat for some time. The workings of the District were discussed together with some important unfinished business. When the new Commissioners emerged from the board room they found the hall crowded with friends and clerks anxious to offer congratulations. The new Commissioners were forced to halt, and for over half an hour held an impromptu reception. TO TAKE CHARGE TO-MORROW. Mr. Douglas, in answer to a question from a STARReporter, said that it was their intention to take charge to-morrow at noon, provided their bonds (which were now at the Treasury) were all right. He said that he didn't antici-pate much trouble in getting into the run of things, and that he thought everything would be in good running order in about a week. Mr. Hine, when spoken to by The STAR's representative, said that he would be ready to assume control of his share of the office by to-morrow noon. When asked whether there would be any changes in the personnel of the office he said that he could not tell; that it was subject to which he had paid little attention. After the visitors had gone Mr. Wheatley came into the room and satd: "We have met the enemy and we are theirs." Mr. Webb, however, was not in as pleasant a state of mind, and he looked as if he wished the whole thing was over with.

While waiting at the station here for a train to return home her brother-in-law, Frank Nearing, drove up in a buggy and told her he would drive her to Lanesville. She accepted his invitation and they drove out of town together. When about a mile out in the country Nearing made improper advances to her and she sprang from the carriage. The young man sprang after her, letting the horse go madly galloping away. Young Nearing then sprang upon the poor woman and literally

A firm tone marked the trading throughout the hour, but the changes in quotations were small in comparison with the amount of business done, and most of the active shares fluctuated over a range of about ½ per cent. There is talk of foul play as he is known to have had a bank book with him in which he was credited with over $10,000, deposited in some Albany bank. > The New York Sun special, in speaking of this fire says: It is a singular fact that this is the third similar fire which Mr. Gillam has extinguished—once in New York and twice in Senator Arkell's residence. The readers will recall the previous fire here. It occurred two years ago in June. Vice-President Levi P. Morton, the Hon. Frank Hiscock, Senators Hendricks and Carrol E. Smith, of Syracuse, were guests of the Senator. It was a Presidential tea party. The wind blew a lace curtain against a gas jet in the room occupied by Mr. Morton, and the carpet was soon on fire. Mr. Morton went into the room for some purpose and discovered the fire. He quietly walked down stairs and said to the family:

> "I think there is a fire in my room which ought to be put out!" Mr. Gillam rushed into the room and intelligently subdued the flames. The remarkable part of that fire was that the letters "V. P." were burned and well-defined on Mr. Morton's traveling bag. As soon as Mr. Hiscock discovered this he claimed that it was his grip-sack, but it proved to be Morton's. A welloutlined dragon was burned in the carpet, which at the time was referred to as a democratic animal endeavoring to swallow the vice-
